OTTAWA GUESSES:

B.C. May Be Lining Up Big Public Hydro

By TOM GOLLD (Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — There is a growing belief here that Premier W. A. C. Bennett is planning to take over the B.C. Electric and the Wenner-Gren scheme as the foundation of a new provincial power policy.

dation of a new provincial power policy.

Federal government officials have been trying to interpret B.C.'s baffling moves for months, and now believe they have come up with the answer. They were assisted by Premier Bennett's latest communication with Ottawa, still not made public, in which he has again demanded an outright grant to assist in developing problem, but primarily as a means of establishing a single-means of establishing as ingle-means of establishing as in the means of establishing as ingle-means of establish

After the little girl had read passages from a book selected by Mayor Armellino, reporters string Florence. It went something like this:

"What happened May 5, 1961?" she was asked.

"Alan Shepard Jr. was the first American to shoot into space, and that was a magnificent achievement," she said. "What are the hazards in outer space for a space-man?" asked another reporter.

"Cosmic rays and ultraviolet radiation," chirped Flor-ence, adding, "and you call a spaceman an astronaut."

The Bill for Ships

WHEN THE FEDERAL GOV-W ernment announced that it would subsidize the construction of ships in Canadian yards, it was suggested here that this first step must logically lead to a second. As we asked then, what is the use of building ships for deep-sea service if they cannot operate economically in foreign service? The second step must be a subsidy for ship operation if the shipbuilding plan is to fulfill the government's high hopes.

Now the government appears to moving toward further subsidies the demand of the shipping companies. At any rate, the Canadian-Shipowners Association is confident that the government will see that its policy must be greatly expanded to achieve its objective of an oceangoing merchant marine.

Thus the association regards Mr. Balcer's announcement of shipbuild-ing subsidies as a welcome "sign of the government's intention to maintain a merchant shipping fleet appropriate to Canada's position as a world-wide trading nation.

"Unfortunately," says the association, shipyards "will benefit only to the extent of the demand for new lake ships and fishing vessels, which is strictly limited . . We who have been trying to keep Canadian ships operating on the world's trade routes will get little help from the new subsidy. It is available only for new ships to be operated on Canadian registry, and the new policy does nothing to close the gap between Canadian costs of operation and those of the United Kingdom and other overseas countries. With the subsidy, Canadian ship-yards should be able to offer prices competitive with overseas builders but it is no use building ships that we cannot afford to operate.

That is the same problem con-sidered by the Canadian Maritime Commission after the last war. The commission studied the prospects of high-cost Canadian shipping and advised the government that it would be folly to maintain an uneconomic merchant marine with subsidies. The government's fleet, built for war purposes, was there-fore sold to private owners who soon re-sold it to foreigners because they could not make it pay.

The present government has half reversed this decision, but only half. As the Shipowners Association says operating subsidies are required if Canada is to create a new merchant marine, and presumably the government is prepared to pay Otherwise the shipbuilding subsidies would produce only a few ships for coastal traffic or for the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence, from British ships are decided, as a matter of national policy, that half the nation's deepsea traffic must be carried in American ships.

After investing hundreds of millions in operating subsidies, the government finds that only 35 per cent of the nation's foreign commerce moves in American ships. Even with subsidies, they still cannot compete successfully against those of foreign countries like Britain on the oceans of the world. The success of a similar policy in Canada, with its much smaller means, must be considered highly dubious.

Personally, I would nominate Mr. Barron for the job but he might spoil it by introducing his seaguils, like King Charles' head in Mr. Dick's memorial, and I am not quite sure that his human characters, in stifling tweeds and mutilers, exactly represent the average country the present of charge in the West Barron for the job but he might spoil it is already creating the necessary ferment of change in the West Barron for the job but he might spoil it is already creating the necessary ferment of change in the West Barron for the job but he might spoil it is already creating the necessary ferment of change in the West Barron for the job but he might spoil it is already creating the necessary ferment of change in the West Barron for the job but he might spoil it is a whole.

Too Hot to Be Bothered

NERVES are frayed in Cairo these days, and street fights are frequent; not all Cairenes are as restrained as the man I heard in a cafe. He was thin and aescetic-looking, and might have been a shaikh at El Azhar University. In quiet tones, such as might have used in dis-cussing a passage of the Koran, he was describing to his companion a quarrel he had had the previous day with one Khalid.

"I was so furious with him," he said, in a gentle voice, "that I decided to kill him." He hesitated, shrugged his thin shoulders, and added, "but it was so hot that I couldn't be bothered."

Egypt is experiencing its worst heat-wave for 25 years, with temperatures wave for 25 years, with temperatures ranging to a sweltering 118 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade during the day, and very little relief at night. Seventy people were taken to hospital in one day, suffering from heat exhaustion, and one man was found dead with his feet in a basin of cold water. feet in a basin of cold water.

It Needs Ottawa's Answer

Monnet, the great French statesman, has just made an important statement on the creation of a "true Atlantic community" based on a partnership between western Europe, Brit-ain, Canada and the United States. In the debate on the Com-mon Market this statement will always hold a position of outstanding significance. Speaking at Dartmouth College he said:

"Today, a uniting
Europe can look to the future with renewed confidence. The Common Mar-ket, with 170 million people—and if, as I hope and believe, Britain and other countries soon join it, it will number greatly over 200 million-commands resources that are comparable with those of America and Russia.

"Further, the six countries of the Common Market, Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, and Holland have decided to go beyond the economic union they are creating and to define their foreign and other policies together.

"Europe today has the prospect of becoming, with the United States, Russia and China, one of the great forces fashioning tomorrow's world.

Better Together

"Almost every time, since the war, that the countries of the West have tried to settle their problems separately, they have suffered reverses. But when they have moved together, they have opened up new opportunities for them-

"The reason for this is that, today all our major problems go beyond na-tional frontiers. The issues raised by nuclear weapons, the underdeveloped areas, the monetary stability of our countries and even their trade policies, all require joint action by the West.

"What is necessary is to move "What is necessary of the civic soul for the guidance of towards a true Atlantic community in which common institutions will be in-creasingly developed to meet common problems.

"We must, naturally, move step by step towards such an immense objec tive. The pioneer work has already been undertaken by the unification of Europe. It is already creating the ne political questions.

"Just as the United States in their own days found if necessary to unite, just as Europe is now in the process of uniting, so the West must move towards some kind of union. This is not an end in itself. It is the beginning on the road to the more orderly world we must have in order to escape destruc-

"The partnership of Europe and the United States should create a new force for peace. It will give the West the opportunity to deal on a new basis with the problems of the underdeveloped areas. For, just as our own societies would never have found their spiritual and political equilibrium if the internal problems of poverty had not been tackled, so the liberties which form the best part of the western tradition could hardly survive a failure to overcome the international divisions and between black, yellow and white.

What Objective?

"A partnership of Europe and Amer-ica would also make it possible to over-come the differences between East and West. For what is the Soviet objec tive? It is to achieve a Communist world, as Mr. Khrushchev has told us many times.

"When this becomes so obviously impossible that nobody, even within a closed society, can any longer believe it, then Mr. Khrushchev or his successor will accept facts. The conditions will at last exist for turning so-called peaceful co-existence into genuine peace. At that time, real disarmament will become possible.

"Fortunately, it will not be neces sary to wait so long for a detente. As soon as it is clear that the West is de-termined to unite, the world will react to the trend. We must therefore take the first steps quickly. ning out. The danger increases with every day.

No Middle Ground

"In the past, there has been no middle ground between the jungle law of nations, and the Utopia of international concord. Today, the methods of unifi-cation developed in Europe show the way. As we can see from American and British reactions to European unity, one change on the road to collective responsibility brings another. The chain reaction has only begun.

"We are starting a process of continuous reform which can alter tomor world more lastingly than the principles of revolution so widespread outside the West. "A hundred and seventy years ago, the French Revolution filled men's minds, but in the end, the industrial revolution, which few of them noticed, has mattered as much, or more. So, today, the Communist revolution may fill many men's minds, but the process of creating free and common institutions between states and peoples, which few of them still appreciate, can finally bring much greater benefits to the world.

"Naturally, progress will not without danger; no great change is effected without effort and setbacks. In: Europe the movement to unity has overcome many such troubles and, in my opinion, is already irreversible."

Throughout his statement Jean Monnet linked Canada with the United States in his plea for an Atlantic community with agreed economic policies. He spoke throughout of co-operation be-tween "America and Europe." His plea demands an answer in Ottawa no less than in Washington.

Too Hopeful, or Too Lazy?

THE man whom, among all my friends, I consider best informed on international affairs, is sorely troubled. He sees the future under the pall of a mushroom cloud. An expert on crises, he is all but con-vinced that we stand at the dawn of obliteration and that it may be a short on victoria, 11 be the most surprised man in Stott town. It could happen. Until it does, this creaking old world seems to offer a reasonable amount of happiness to those who look for it. I'll keep on looking.

Anyone old enough to have lived through two world wars probably shouldn't be this optimistic. Still, we've passed through a fair number of crises since then, and most people have to be reminded of them a few years after they're over.

Remember that summer time when humanity appeared to be poised on the brink of disaster centring on Quemoy Strait? It looked, during one weekend, as if we'd be lucky to get out of it alive. We were lucky and we got out of it. That crisis was laid aside temporarily.

Last year around this time, Pat and I arrived in Paris the day the summit blew up. In that parlous situation, our greatest diffi-culty was 5 o'clock traffic in the maze of streets that make up the French capital. Ed Aubel, who was driving with ability and in-tuition, solved that problem.

The French people seemed to be taking things in their stride. The stores catered as usual to customers, the eating houses seemed busy and prosperous. The only very excited Frenchman I encountered was a waiter on a sidewalk cafe who tried to explain in con-siderable volume that I hadn't tipped him the galety for which the city is known.

All this proves, I suppose, that I'm not a very good crisis man. A sort of unconscious hedonism has claimed me from youth.

My pursuit of happiness may not now be an Olympic sprint, but I still manage to shuffle after my pleasures—and endure the hangovers, metaphorical and actual, that they bring.

Deep down, I acknowledge a certain sense of guilt. This business of living for the day, extracting the fullest possible enjoyment from it, scarcely seems to provide the ideal example for the young. They, too, are be-coming as unconsciously hedonistic as I. There should be a certain amount of sober planning going into their lives.

If you look hard enough, you'll find that such a process is taking place for many of them. The youngsters who are appearing these days on graduation day platforms are frequently giving quite a lot of thought to what they want to make of life. Maybe this is just laziness on their part, an unwillingness to put time, effort and money into creation of shelters or the mastery of survival technique. On the other hand, it may be just a cheerful disregard for hand, it may be just a cheefful. I'm past that crises. I hope it's justified. I'm past that stage in life where I enjoy big bangs.

Jobless Rolls Drop in May

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment fell sharply to 457,000 at mid-May from 622,000 a month earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The total, 38,000 higher than a year earlier, represented 7 per cent of the labor force, compared with 9.7 per cent a month earlier. a month earlier. This was 8.1

Apart from seasonal changes employment increases during the month were most marked in the Prairie and Pa cific regions. In other regions gains were about seasonal.

302,000 FAMILY HEADS

The report also included a picture of the family charac teristics of the 622,000 who were unemployed in April. It showed that 302,000, or 48 per cent, were heads of family units. Another 43 per cent 266,000, were sons and daugh ters or other relatives. The remaining 54,000, or nine per cent, were not members of family units.

In 72 per cent of the family

Flat Swing

Most short and heavy-set men in golf tend to take a flat swing one that is too shal-low or on a horizontal plane.

To correct this tendency, these golfers must learn to take a more upright swing.
This can best be practised by placing a club parallel to the desired line of flight and bringing the clubhead straight back from the vall along this line.

To avoid a too-flat swing, a nore restricted pivot should be used. A slightly open stance will help cut down excessive body turn. Don't let the left arm become stiff at the address. Make sure the shoulcome underneath the chin, not out and around it

Hideous Signs, Even More Smoke, Tasteless Bungalows . . . If We Fail

dream that used to ensnare visitors to the charming, slowly-paced Victoria of 20 years ago? The dream of com-ing back to visit or make a home here.

Dr. Gordon 'H. Grant suggested to Victoria Kiwanis Club today that the dream is being destroyed because of in creasing ugliness in the city and surrounding districts.

"The damage we are doing our tourist industry, serious though that is, looms small in-deed alongside the harm we will do ourselves and our chiltect and restore the once matchless beauty of this area," he said.

"If we fail to do what we should do, the people of 1980 are going to live in a greatly expanded, even uglier version of what stretches now from Langford to Yates Street along Government.

"If we fail . . . hideous signs will blot out the few trees we may have happened to spare; a tangle of wires and wooden poles leaning askew will hide any few distinguished buildings we may manage to put heavier and quite preventable pall of smoke will hang across the lengthening approaches to the city.

"If we fail, the whole of Saanich peninsula is going to end up a ragged sprawl of tasteless bungalows, built in clumps on what should have been left as farm or park-land," Dr. Grant said.

He lashed out at strip develomment, "a continent-wide phenomenon," and in particu-lar the strip developer.

"The kindest thing we can say about him is that he be-want to enjoy simultaneously the benefits of both town and country and end up with the worst of each," he said. He defined the strip de veloper as a man who wants to get away from the city's rush and then puts up his dream house on the edge of a main traffic artery.

"We can craftily build a new

With no signs of hot spell abating even a little, and Penny herself broiling alive with a beautiful sunburn, thoughts turn to lingerie that is non-sticky, non-clinging. Fortunately, a Victoria shop is selling dainty slips that fill this bill.

They are made of a new fabric called "Blendene," of mixed terylene, cotton and nylon. Slips of this fabric can boast three big advantages. They are non-diaphanous with back shadow-panel; they need no ironing, and they do not insulate heat in, but allow skin to breathe. In sizes 34 to 40, they are a bargain

Same shop is alling Chinese-styled slips made of an especially treated nylon fabric that will neither crackle nor cling. Slips are trimmed with lace and embroidered delicately up the slight side slit. These are also priced at $4.95 each.

A crinoline, as you know, can well "make or break" the effect of a full-skirted summer dress. The same dress can be drab or overdone, depending upon its foundation. Nylon and lace crinolines Penny found today are just softly bouffant, with fitted nylon jersey from hip to waist. Made in Montreal,

If so, this whim can be gratified, for sleeping bags are on sale in a Victoria store at $12.95 each. Bags are covered with sturdy, paddy green canvas, filled with dacron and lined in plaid. - By OSWALD JACOBY For some time back most bridge writers have egnized the difficulty of covering the subject of minor suit jump raises by just forgetting about the whole thing. They do say that the jump out that since 29 points are necessary for a minor suit game you need more strength for a minor suit jump raise than for a major suit.

The majority o tournament players get around this by simply using the minor South West North East

1 Pass 3 Pass

3 Pass 3 N.T. Pass suit jump raise as a strong limit bid and Opening lead-4 Q not as a force. Needless to say, this fits right in with the Jacoby-Smith forcing three no-trump, except that after a minor suit opening the three no-trump response shows at least 15 supporting points since it is a force to five, not a mere four. Furthermore, the minor suit jump raise to three should usually suggest the possibility of a no-trump game. Thus, south has a sound opening bid of a no-trump pattern. He should rebid to either three spades or three no-trump after North's jump raise in dia-monds. The three-spade rebid is preferable and that gives North a chance to bid the no-trump game which turns out to be a lay-down against any defence.

Wayne and Shuster Start New U.S.-Made Series at 9 on 6 and 2

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

WAS PLEASED to receive a report from Crawley Films Ltd., Ottawa, the other day to say they had been signed by Videocraft International of New York to produce "Tales of the Wizard of Oz," a series of five-minute color cartoons for world television of Dhaulagiri," winds up the two-part series.

Although Crawley has been in the animation field for many years they are going to recruit some of the country's top-drawer animators for this effort, possibly 40 in all. Voices of the characters will be directed by Bernard Cowan and will include Larry Mann, Paul Kligman, Alfie Scopp, James Doohan and Pegi Loder.
This is good news as it may well mean the start of a new industry in this Canada of ours. . . .

3,000 on V.I. Sign Petition Protesting Railway Subsidies

An estimated 3000 Team-Union members, trucking operators and citizens of Vancouver Island have signed a petition condemning the federal government for subsidiz-ing Canada's railways.

The Canadian Con prence of reamsters hopes to get 40,000 to 50,000 signatures to its pe-tition across the country be-fore presenting it soon to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Originally intended only for ada, the petition has been encollibr's warning that a further delay in dealing with the dorsed from many quarters, beautification scheme for Douglas Street may result in and foreign commerce. Their including independent trucking operators, their office staffs and persons not as directly connected with the transport industry.

Family Emigrates to New Zealand

AUCKLAND (CP)-Believed to be the largest family to migrate from Canada to New Zealand in recent times, the O'Neills of Vancouver came ashore here from the liner Oriana 14 strong. Even then, one was waiting on the pier to greet them and another stayed behind in Canada.

Mrs. Orville O'Neill and 13 of her children occupied three large cabins in the Qriana. They brought 20 pieces

Waiting to welcome them to a new life was Orville O'Neill, father of the family, who pioneered the move six

"The building business is slow in Vancouver and we heard there was work available in New Zealand," Mrs. O'Neill said.

"My husband had not worked for some months. Now he has a good job and a house for us. It took most of our savings, but we think we will make out all right."

O'Neill is working in the building-trade in Rotorua, thriving tourist resort and farming town in the centre of New Zealand's thermal region about 150 miles from Auckland.

The O'Neill children who took part in the family migration are Colleen, 16; Elaine, 15; Brian, 14; Karen, 12; Glennis, 11; Leah, 10; Clare, 7; Kerry, 6; Gloria, 5; Thomas, 3; Rose, 2; Darcy, 13 months, and Frank, two months, who was born after the father set out for New Zealand. O'Neill met his latest son on the pier at Auckland for the first time.

Still-in Canada is Anne, 18, the eldest, who recently joined the RCAF.

Mrs. O'Neill said a sea voyage with 13 children was not really a rest cure—next time she'd like to travel alone. But properly organized it was not as tough as people

Now the family is looking forward to life in a country where appeals for building workers appear on hoardings outside nearly every construction job.

OTTAWA GUESSES:

B.C. May Be Lining Up Big Public Hydro

By TOM GOULD (Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — There is a growing belief here that Premier W. A. C. Bennett is planning to take over the B.C. Electric and the Wenner-Gren scheme as the foundation of a new provincial power policy.

dation of a new provincial power policy.

Federal government officials have been trying to interpret B.C.'s baffling moves for months, and now believe they have come up with the answer.

They were assisted by Premier Bennett's latest communication with Ottawa, still not made public, in which he has again demanded an outright grant to assist in developing the Columbia River.

In the same letter, the premier repeated his demands for the right to sell all Columbia River downstream benefit power to the United States.

Here is the way many experts in Ottawa now see the

B.C. power situation:

1. Bennett wants to build the Poicet as a provincially owned Columbia dams, not to provide power for B.C., but purely as hydro developments.

111 WASHINGTON (AP)-The Supreme Court Monday washington (Ar)—The supreme court monday decided states may not bar from public office persons who refuse to take an oath that they believe in God.

The court ruled on an appeal by Roy B. Torcaso of Wheaton, Md., who was denied a commission as a notary public because he would not take such an oath.

Justice Hugo Black, who delivered the court's opinion, said:

"This Maryland religious test for public office un-constitutionally invades appellant's Torcaso's freedom of helief and religion and therefore cannot be enforced

Hearing Set On Hampton Trampolines

Saanich council Monday called a public hearing to con-sider an application for per-mission to establish a trampoline sport centre on the north side of Hampton Road.

The planning advisory board urged council to reject the application on the grounds Saanich will soon have to buy the property to expand facilities at Hampton Park.

The sports centre, the board added, would conflict with residential development to a greater degree than a "nor-greater degree than a "normal" commercial use.

At the same time, Saanich rejected the application of Laurier A. Como for permission to develop property between Lochsida and Cumberland Roads for use as a "gokart track."

The planning board noted that a go-kart track could not be developed without creating a conflict with existing residen tial development.

It would also lead to the development of commercial type development in the area, it sald.

60 BOOKS AT AGE TWO WHIZ KID'S RECORD

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)-Florence Jacobs is the proud owner of public library card No. 4536.

The card will enable her to pursue such favorite subjects as rocketry and geography of outer space." And it will bring her an endless supply of the long, tongue-twisting words that she likes to spell.

Florence is just 21/2 years old.

The brown-eyed, 39-pound bundle of answers applied for her card Monday, but it took a little doing to get it. Library regulations declare that card holders must be at least seven years old.

But after a meeting with Florence, Mayor John J. Armellino made an exception to the rule.

Her mother, Mrs. Marie Jacobs, said Florence has already read some 60 books through the seventh grade level. She learned the alphabet when she was a year old and now spells more than 300 difficult words. Florence's father, Jerome, is a business consultant.

After the little girl had read passages from a book selected by Mayor Armellino, reporters started questioning Florence. It went something like this:
"What happened May 5, 1961?" she was asked.

"Alan Shepard Jr. was the first American to shoot into space, and that was a magnificent achievement," she said. "What are the hazards in outer space for a space of a space of the spa

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved, And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough

Another Liberal motion to call Mr. Coyne before the com-RECALLED mittee was defeated by a vote of 15 to 9. But the Liberal's quickly followed with a third calling for Mr. Coyne to come to the committee to assist in discussion of the bill, a sendiscussion of the bill, a sendar a mortgage company.
